2011 Alumni Reunion Scientific Program

Target Audience

This program is designed for physicians of all specialties, both active and retired and all medical students.

Needs Statement and Objectives

Based upon identified needs and practice gaps as reported by the alumni Board members and the 2010 scientific program evaluations it was determined that this year's program would focus on: prison medicine, protecting the public from dangerous clients, preventing and treating cervical cancer, preventing and decreasing preterm births and promoting health through exercise.

At the conclusion of this program participants will be provided information to increase their knowledge/understanding regarding: how medicine is practiced in a prison setting; the physician's role in protecting the public from potentially dangerous patients; newest treatments to diagnose and treat cervical cancer; identifying the risk factors to pre-term birth to make appropriate interventions & referrals; the health benefits of exercise.
