

Family Nurse Practitioner (Advanced Certificate)

Two Year Full Time Program

DOWNSTATE
HEALTH SCIENCES UNIVERSITY

The Family Nurse Practitioner (FNP) program prepares registered nurses with the advanced theoretical knowledge, clinical judgment, and practice skills that undergird the care of families across the age continuum.

The advance certificate program of study is 35 credits and designed to be completed in six semesters. A primary emphasis of this advanced practice role is a holistic approach to management of family health through interdisciplinary collaboration.

Practice is primarily in ambulatory care settings. FNPs are among those who, according to the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), contribute significantly to providing health care to underserved populations residing in both urban and rural settings.

Upon successful completion of the master of science degree, graduates are eligible to take the national certifying examination offered by the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) and the American Academy of Nurse Practitioners (AANP) to apply for the Nurse Practitioner Certificate in New York State.
