

Women's Health Nurse Practitioner (Advanced Certificate)

Two Year Full Time Program

The Women's Health Nurse Practitioner program (WHNP) provides comprehensive, culturally sensitive primary health care, through a holistic perspective that emphasizes health promotion and disease prevention to women throughout the lifespan.

The advanced certificate program of study is 35 credits and designed to be completed in five semesters. The WHNP is prepared to implement evidence-based practice guidelines, critically analyze and implement health care interventions based on individualized assessments of women's health care needs.

As advanced practice nurses, Women's Health Nurse Practitioners perform comprehensive health assessments; conduct risk analyses; provide client education and counseling to promote wellness and prevent disease; diagnose and treat common health problems and acute and chronic conditions. The primary focus of the care provided by the Women's Health Nurse Practitioner program is in the area of Obstetrics & Gynecology.

The curriculum of the WHNP program is based on the American Association of Colleges of Nursing's Essentials document. It also meets the guidelines of the National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health.

Graduates of the program are eligible to apply for licensure in New York State and to sit for the national certification examination given by the National Certification Corporation (NCC) which is the certifying body for the Obstetric, Gynecologic and Neonatal advanced practice nurses.
