Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center, located in the East Flatbush section of Central Brooklyn, was founded in 1926 as a chronic care facility to serve the then Jewish Community within a cultural context. As the community has evolved and diversified, Kingsbrook has expanded its services and programs, to meet the needs of the large culturally diverse communities that it now serves and is now a large Medical Center comprising of an acute hospital, nursing home and rehabilitation center.

Kingsbrook is an 864-bed medical training institution, comprised of a 318-bed acute care hospital and a 538-bed adult and pediatric skilled nursing long-term care facility. In addition to its celebrated Kingsbrook Rehabilitation Institute, Kingsbrook's Centers of Excellence include Brooklyn's only NYS licensed Traumatic Brain Injury and Coma Recovery Unit, and a Geriatric Inpatient Psychiatry service, a premiere program serving the mentally challenged elderly throughout the borough. Kingsbrook has a large Department of Medicine that caters to all types of needs from the community.

There is a 54 resident free standing, accredited residency program in Internal Medicine that provides services to patients under the supervision of a large teaching staff. In addition, there are two other accredited programs in Orthopaedic Surgery and Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, which provides similar services in their perspective specialties. There is also a 10 beds ICU and 10 beds CCU to support all the critical care needs of the Institution.

Currently, Kingsbrook sponsors three free residency programs and two SUNY Downstate integrated programs. Kingsbrook's graduate medical training programs are continually improving to provide an enhanced ambulatory care emphasis as well as competent and proficient healthcare providers.
