Since its founding in 1883, NYU-Lutheran (formerly Lutheran Medical Center), located in the Sunset Park/Bay Ridge area of Brooklyn, has been committed to its community and to training health care professionals. As a nationally recognized community teaching health system, NYU-Lutheran is a major teaching affiliate of State University of New York (SUNY) Health Sciences Center at Brooklyn. Services include a 450-bed hospital, a 240-bed nursing home, an innovative managed care program, community and educational programs and a comprehensive primary care delivery system and school health program, along with housing and social support services for older adults.

At NYU- Lutheran Medical Center we offer a model of comprehensive health care delivery that ensures access to high-quality health care and promotes well-being within the context of family and community. NYU-Lutheran sponsors fully accredited residency-training programs in Dentistry, Family Practice, Internal Medicine, Neurology, Obstetrics & Gynecology, Podiatry, Surgery, Surgical Critical Care, and Vascular Surgery. We are committed to educating a new generation of physicians who will possess a balance between clinical excellence and sensitivity to individual patient needs. NYU-Lutheran is also committed to the education of medical students and offers a variety of third year clinical clerkships and fourth year electives to SUNY students. In 1996, the Office of Clinical Research was also established to help residents and students develop a deeper understanding of relevant medical literature and clinical investigation.
