

New York State Department of Health
Approved On-Line Infection Control Courses

Effective November, 2008, the New York State Department of Health has implemented new Infection Control requirements for all medical students. These are described in Section 239(b) of the Public Health Law. The complete list of authorized providers is available at <http://www.op.nysed.gov/icproviders.htm>. At that URL, there is an option to obtain a current list of New York State approved courses from distance learning providers. SUNY Downstate assumes no responsibility for the accuracy of the information on the website. Some identified choices from the website list are:
