THE BACK TO WORK WORKGROUP GOES TO WORK

Subject: Ramp-Up Plan of Downstate Research Activities

The Downstate Back to New Normal (BTNN) workgroup, as part of the Coronavirus Prepare Force appointed by president Riley, is pleased to announce policies (attached) for ramping b research activities. A subcommittee of the BTNN, chaired by me and comprised of laboratory human-research faculty and staff, developed the plans, which aim to ensure workforce and l subject safety, while providing flexibility for researchers. Thank you to those involved for their collaboration, insights, and diligent work.

Each research group is required to fill out and submit their group-specific ramp-up plan acco process described in the attached documents. Links to the documents can also be found downloaded on the Back to Work Website here.

The submitted plan must be approved by my office before ramp-up can commence.

We are confident that the ramp-up will enable our researchers to regain the momentum disr pandemic shutdown, thereby resuming their impressive research and its critical contribution Downstate's mission. Please do not hesitate to contact me (svp-research-office@downstate.edu questions or concerns as we work together as part of the larger Downstate community to mc

Best wishes,
David Christini, PhD
